CLARKSVILLE VOTED DRY.

The Saloons Were Knocked Out by a Majority of 254 Votes.

AN EXCITING ELECTION.

Scenes Such as Never Before Attended an Election in That City.

Clarksville, Tenn., Feb. 26.—The election held here to-day to decide whether or not the saloons shall be abolished, resulted in a victory for the anti-saloon people by a majority of 254 votes. The vote was heavy and such an election was never before seen in the city. Early in the morning 2,000 men, women and children paraded the streets, waving banners and singing inspiring songs. Prayer-meetings were held in rooms near the polling places, the church bells rang and the most intense interest was manifested. The most prominent citizens took part in the fight against the saloons. The total vote was: Drys, 811; wets, 557. The election passed off very quietly.

The workers had wonderful effect, and many men were moved to tears as the hundreds of little children passed along the streets singing and cheering for temperance. A tent was erected on the Public Square near the polling place, and coffee and sandwiches were served to all voters, both white and colored, during the entire day. At the court house lunch was also served.

Sheriff Johns, of Nashville, made two speeches to large crowds in the interest of temperance, and did great work. The saloon men were very active, however, and succeeded in getting out one of the largest colored votes ever recorded in the city. Both sides had challengers at the polls, and many votes were thrown out. Prominent men and women worked faithfully at the polls all day, and prayers were offered for the success of the case in the court-house, where hundreds of ladies had assembled.

OCTOGENARIAN.

Mrs. Wesley Griffin Dies, Aged Eighty Years.

The wife of the late Wesley Griffin died last Friday night at her home in the Bell's Chapel neighborhood, three miles from Fairview. She was about eighty years old and had been feeble for some time. Two days before her death she became unconscious and passed away as above stated. The deceased had been a member of the Presbyterian church for many years. She is survived by four children.

NATIVE OF CHRISTIAN.

Mr. Robert S. Hook, Dies at His Home in Ballard.

Mr. Robert S. Hook, father of R. E. Hook, at one time local American Express agent, died last Sunday in Ballard County after a ten-days' illness of pneumonia. The deceased was born in this county, but for a number of years lived in McCracken. A few years ago he moved to Ballard, near Kevil. He was a substantial and widely known farmer.

Prominent Negro Dead.

Wm. Rowland, the colored painter, one of the best known colored men in the city, died of cancer of the stomach Monday night, aged 49 years. He was an industrious workman, a moral and respected citizen. He owned considerable property, one of his possessions being the colored cemetery near the Eastern part of the city. He was buried yesterday.

PEMBROKE'S NEW SCHEME

Will Build a $20,000 Hotel and a Huge Lake.

WE HAVE A CHANCE.

Buy a Lot and Have a Summer Home of Your Own.

The business and enterprise of the citizens of our near neighbor, Pembroke, have almost become a proverb. No place anywhere has more pluck and get-up to the square inch than Pembroke. The people have the faculty of knowing a good thing when they see it, and the means and nerve of jumping in with both feet and getting out of it all that is to be had.

During the past few months a company has been organized to build a large summer hotel at Salubria Springs, just one mile this side of Pembroke. The company now owns all the land around the famous springs and had their property surveyed and divided into building lots, which they have put upon the market, and enough lots have already been sold to justify the company in erecting a handsome hotel of forty rooms.

The lots surrounding the land on which the hotel is to be built have been put at the unusually low rate of $75 each, and each purchaser, when he receives his deed, will be given one share ($25) of the preferred stock of the hotel building. No one can ask a fairer deal than this. The object of the company in putting the price so extremely low is to induce people, wherever they may be, to become joint owners of the hotel, and being thus interested, will use their influence to make Salubria Springs a famous watering place.

As to the quantity of water available, we are authorized to say that the flow of water is more than sufficient to supply 5,000 people a day with all they might desire to use. There are about 50 springs, all of more or less value as to medicinal qualities. The company has planned to construct a lake 1,000 feet long and 300 feet wide. The location of the hotel will be in a beautiful grove of forest trees. The ground is almost as level as a floor, is only eight miles from Hopkinsville, and it will be a pleasant drive over a pike from this city. In fact, it is not an inch too far from us for a park, and it is most probable that National Magazine.

The National Magazine for March has another article on the James Exposition, and also contains an appreciation by William Hemstreet, of Anthony Comstock, who is perhaps the least understood and most abused of any great reformer of the age.

The "Homes of Longfellow," by Mary H. Northend, "Natural Beauty of Utah," by W. C. Jenkins, and "On the Site of the White City," are strong articles that appear in this number.

The "Manning Maids" is one of the best illustrated articles to be found in any of the March Magazines. The National has a large number of first class stories, and will prove to be a number interesting and instructive to all members of the family.

OVER 200,000 DOGS.

New Dog Law will Bring the Treasury Big Amount.

Under the dog tax statute all claims for the destruction of sheep by dogs, after approval by the fiscal court of the county, are to be filed with the State Auditor, and to be paid by him after the first of January each year, or the amount collected in the county pro rated if the claims are for an amount in excess of the taxes collected from this source. After all such claims have been settled, the surplus remaining to the credit of a county shall be transferred to the credit of the school fund of such county.

Boy With Patched Pants.

A somewhat solicitous writer for a farm paper has asked, "What has become of the boy with patched trousers?" Why, bless you, he is on the farm, hopping clogs sixteen hours a day. He will go to town after while to run the banks and stores and to be a successful lawyer, preacher or physician. No one need worry about the boy with patches on his trousers. He is not confined to the country alone. Cities have their galore, I am sorry to say. It is the well dressed boy with eyeglasses and his hair parted in the middle that this solicitous writer should be looking after. He's the fellow that is going to drop through a crack in the sidewalk and out of sight one of these days.—Tri-State Farmer.

Freak Bills.

The Kentucky legislature is not the only one in which "freak bills" are offered, though it gets its full quota. Here are some that are regarded as prize winners:

In Kansas a bill was passed changing the name of George Denolf to George Bell, but failing to change the name of Mrs. Denolf. Now there is trouble in that family.

In Missouri, in addition to the bill to tax bachelors, bills have been introduced to prevent tipping, to regulate spendthrifts, to prevent one person from treating another in a saloon, to prevent the manufacture or sale of "popping" matches, to prevent boys from playing ball on vacant lots and to compel farmers to cut all the morning glory vines and cockle bur plants on their farms.

In Maine a bill has been introduced permitting any person to kill any dog found running at large.

In Colorado a bill has been offered prohibiting foot ball.

In Wisconsin a bill has been introduced providing that all eggs must be stamped, showing the day on which they were laid. This is to prevent the sale of antiquated hen fruit.

A bill to tax bachelors and one to provide for the incorporation of a cemetery for cats have been offered in Massachusetts.

These are only a few of the "freaks" offered in the different state legislatures, but they serve to indicate that about as many cranks can be found in legislative bodies as outside of them.—Morganfield Sun.

"Generally debilitated for years. Had sick headaches, lacked ambition, was worn-out and all run-down. But Dock Blood Bitters made me a well woman."—Mrs. Chas. Freitoy, Moose Conn.

Jamestown.

All the state buildings front on a beautiful beach, which for a mile or more is swept by the tides of Hampton Roads, and will command the most lovely and interesting views ever presented at such a gathering, and especially an immense concert of passenger and freight craft, and thousands of private yachts and motor boats. The naval display will be the largest and most representative in the history of all the many great expositions. England, Germany, Russia, France, Italy, Mexico, Costa Rica, Haiti, Belgium, Guatemala, Argentina, San Domingo, Chile, Portugal, Brazil and Japan will be represented in the great fleets which will, in all amity, be received by the United States Navy in Hampton Roads, and their presence alone will give the exposition a prestige and popularity, dignity and interest beyond present realization.—National Magazine for March.

"LITTLE VISITS WITH UNCLE BY"
A dainty young dude from Bon Arr Made a wager to slide down the stair. He tripped on a rug And came down with a bang— And now he can't sit on a chair!

"Sum day, gosh, when I git time," see Uncle By, "I'm gosh 't invent a moth catcher for families, a sort of a fisherman's landin' net and a pan cake turner, an' my wife kin ketch moths without flapin' her hands 'tgether an' 'schoochin' them little yippy screeches that alius make me think she's got 'em agin' or th' house is on fire, or th' baby-grand he's got a mouse in its innards! I believe by hee, that honor an' riches awaits th' successful maker of a moth catcher that kin do away with a woman dat 's' round the doornits with her arm in the air and her voice a yippin' at every dart—darned if I don't!"

There was a young poet named Windin' Who wrote verse shakier and spindin': "Oh, my, such a lingo," 'Yield criticism to him! They used all he sent them for kindin'!

Changes.

"Last week," see Uncle By, "It rained so dog-on much in Chicago dat I stretched my neck two inches 't keep from drownin'." This week it's so darned slippery, I've shrank four so's 't be near th' ground when I tumble!"

Heart and Heart Strums.

Convicts in the Ohio penitentiary are allowed to play "shiny" as a reward for being good. Gee, I haven't had time to play a game of "shiny" in thirty years. Guess I'll have to be good and break into the penitentiary.

A washer-woman leaned too far out of her tenement window, fell one story, caught on a nail by her skirt and was saved. Instead of tickling a harp for justice, she is now working twelve hours a day churning underbreaches up and down the washboard. It is sometimes dangerous to be saved.

In an article by a New York woman on the subject of how to be happy though married, she says, "My husband won't be bossed and I respect him for it." You fellows who have been letting your wives boss you, reverse the tables and win her respect. A two pound maul, like they use for driving circus stakes, would be about right.

A Nebraska man fell in love with a woman's voice over the telephone and married the woman. I'll bet he'll get enough of that game before he is through listening.

It is hard to climb up in the world, but doubly hard to enjoy life after being compelled to come down again.

A Kansas man has married a woman whose name he found in a package of cigarettes. This again we see the bad effects of cigarette smoking.

The man of the house told the peddler that his wife didn't need a new mop, because she had just finished mopping the floor with him.

The Palmist.

He held her hand! Within the pin-point glow of third shade, In occult look he gazed surroundings made.

He held her hand! And he was like a mailed lion of dawn, Of brooks of sunset—and a merry game!

He held her hand, And in her eyes he read her heart's desire, A wish that he alone might cherish or fear.

He held her hand! From his cheek he felt the rent of pain, Exhausted from out the words mouthed her strain.

He held her hand, And in the bluish-hued fulness of her youth, Her longing soul cried out to know the truth!

He held her hand, And with his eye traced out the lines of fate, He read for cash. He did not want a wife!

The Weather.

For Kentucky. Probably rain or snow and warmer Thursday.

During a session which for its dramatic climaxes possibly surpassed anything of the kind in the railroad history of the country, E. H. Harrison spent the entire day yesterday on the stand before the Interstate Commerce Commission in New York city. The master merger of big roads admitted, under questioning, that the big systems of the country had brought upon themselves the wave of legislation which is at present sweeping the country. He admitted that he would absorb the Santa Fe system if not convinced the Commission would prevent.

Only ten survivors were rescued from the Berlin wreck off the coast of Holland, out of 141 on board. Capt. Jansen was one of them, just as the captain of the Larchmont was one of 19 to escape from his list of 160 or more. The officers are human and understand the first law of nature.

W. A. Young, chief counsel for James Hargis, in Lexington, says the trial of Hargis, set for next Monday, will not be postponed on account of the conflict in date with the trial of French, Smith, Abner and others, set for the same time at Beattyville.

They seem to be doing some real fighting in the Central American revolution. The Nicaraguan forces are said to have captured Gen. Vidal and 100 Honduran soldiers in the attack on San Marcos de Colon. Many men were killed or wounded in the fighting.

Evelyn Nesbit Thaw's examination was closed Tuesday. Mr. Jerome's questioning having consumed the greater part of five court days. The noted trial is nearing a close.

Senator Jos. C. S. Blackburn will retire from the United States Senate March 4, after a public service of 30 years. He will be succeeded by Judge Thos. M. Paynter.

NOISY CHARIVARI.

Celebrated the Nuptials of Mr. and Mrs. Charlton.

Mr. and Mrs. N. A. Charlton, a newly married couple on Durrett avenue, were given a charivari Monday night with cannon crackers. The bombardment began about nine o'clock. The nature of the disturbance was soon learned by telephone and an officer was sent out to the scene to stop it, as it proved to be very trying on the nerves of some Trigg county people in the city. The merry-makers were close to the boundary line of the city and they moved a short distance over the line and used up the rest of their fireworks. Many citizens, not knowing what was the cause, called up the authorities and offered to report for military duty if needed.

FARMERS MEETING.

At Shelbyville With Members of State Board to Elect.

The State Farmers Institute met at Shelbyville yesterday with a large attendance.

Two members of the State Board of Agriculture, Forestry and Immigration will be elected at this meeting. The members of the board whose terms expire this year are W. T. Harris, of Morganfield, from the First district, and Guthrie Wilson, of Nelson county, from the Third district. Mr. Harris is seeking reelection, and is opposed by C. N. McGrew, J. O. Smithson, G. P. Rodgers of Livingston county, A. H. Carden of Crittenden county, J. B. Walker and R. C. Crenshaw of Christian county. Mr. Wilson is also a candidate for reelection and has two opponents, R. R. Gilmer, of Shelby county, and S. V. Breake, of Clinton county. The indications point to the election of Mr. Wilson, but an interesting contest is promised in the First district with chances in favor of Mr. Walker.

SENATOR JOE

Washington, D. C., Feb. 26.—The President has decided to appoint Senator Blackburn, of Kentucky, a member of the Isthmian Canal Commission. That body is to be reorganized this week. The Senator will retire from the Senate March 4, when he will be succeeded by Judge Paynter. His plan was to go to Versailles, to take up the practice of law, but to serve on the canal commission at $10,000 a year is so much more attractive that he will accept the offer as soon as it is made.

FARMER DEAD.

Mr. Jack Tandy, Aged 65, Victim of Heart Trouble.

Mr. Jack Tandy, a leading farmer of the Pembroke vicinity, died suddenly, Tuesday evening about 8 o'clock. He had been ill of bronchitis, but was not considered seriously indisposed. He had a sinking spell about seven o'clock, but rallied and suffered a fatal relapse an hour later. The immediate cause of his death was heart disease.

Mr. Tandy was the youngest of four brothers. The three who survive him are: David A., William H. and Thos. J. Tandy. He was unmarried and had always lived with his brother, William H. Tandy. He belonged to one of the pioneer families of the county. His grandfather and father lived and died in the same neighborhood.

Mr. Tandy was a member of Pembroke Baptist church, and was about 65 years of age. The interment took place in the Pembroke cemetery yesterday afternoon, brief exercises being conducted by the pastor, Rev. W. E. Mitchell.

GREEN GOODS MAN.

Mistakes Henry Abernathy For E. Z. Marks.

Mr. H. H. Abernathy received a green goods letter this week from a party signing himself Amadeo Molina, at Valencia, Spain. He claimed to be in prison as a result of the part he played in the Cuban war, and his only daughter, Emilia, aged 15, worth $29,000 in her own name, was in need of a guardian and protector out of Spain. The writer claimed that his wife was Mary Abernathy, so near a relative of Mr. Abernathy that the girl is his niece. He asked for money to send the girl under escort of a chaplain to Mr. Abernathy, with papers showing that her money is in a London bank. Mr. Abernathy has not sent the money, as he is of Scotch descent and never had a sister. He thinks the letter was intended for a man from Missouri, named E. Z. Marks.

HOG CHOLERA

The Problem of a Cure is Now Solved

Dr. J. H. Snoddy, of Alton, Ill., has discovered a positive cure and preventative for this terrible disease. He has had it in use for ten years and has saved millions of dollars' worth of cholera hogs for the public. The directions for its use are simple and easy to follow. Any practical farmer can stop the worst outbreak of cholera that ever came and save every hog that is able to take the treatment.

This treatment is not an expense to a farmer, because it clears his herd of every character of worm and parasite and puts them in such a thrifty condition that the extra gain they will make from the effect of this treatment will return the farmer $5 in this extra gain for every dollar's worth of the remedy used properly and right.

It is the greatest worm remedy known to medical science. It pays a farmer to keep his hogs clear of worms with it. When the hog is clear of worms and in good thrifty condition it is rather a hard matter to infect him with cholera without directly exposing him to the germ.

It pays to use the medicine whether there is any cholera around or not.

This wonderful remedy is manufactured by the Dr. J. H. Snoddy Remedy Co., Alton, Ill., and is for sale by Planters Hardware Co., incorporated, of Hopkinsville, and E. W. Stegar & Dixon, at Masonville, Ky. Anyone calling on either of these firms can get Dr. Snoddy's free book on hog cholera, free of charge. Every farmer should have one.

You can get St. Louis, Louisville, Nashville, or Evansville basis prices for your produce at the right place. The right place is on the corner of Sixth and Virginia streets.

TO OUR CUSTOMERS:

On March 1st we will adopt a McCaiken Account Register System for keeping our accounts. While this system is new to us, it has been in successful operation for a number of years among the leading merchants of the country who are unanimous in their endorsement of its application to the retail credit business. This new system will give you an itemized bill with every purchase, as well as the total amount at the time of that purchase. We beg to assure you that this holds no possibility of any difference between you and us, as to the condition of your account at our store, as we will have no record here at the store which you do not have an exact copy of at your home, as all charges will be made in duplicate.

To secure your hearty co-operation in operating this system, we will furnish you a miniature register for your home in the shape of a slip holder especially devised to hold these slips, which under this system, means so much to you. You will kindly request of us that this holder be delivered to you when the first purchase is made at our store after the system has been installed. We beg to assure you that the fact of your total indebtedness to us appearing on each slip has no personal application to you or to any other customer, but is merely a part of the successful operation of this new system.

We thank you for past favors and hope by careful attention to your wants and by strict adherence to honorable business methods, to merit an increasing continuance of your trade.

Yours truly,

J. MILLER CLARK.

PEMBROKE'S NEW SCHEME.

An electric railway will in a short time be in operation from here to the springs. It is said that the enterprising people of Pembroke have already begun soliciting stock for the electric line. When it comes to doing things the people of that live little city are always at it. Pembroke is coming this way, and when the Salubria Springs Hotel is completed it will take your spare change on it that Salubria will soon be within the corporate limits and part of the thriving little city.

The stockholders want our own people to join them in this enterprise and are offering us a square deal all round. You have the same chance of securing one of the most desirable lots at just what the Pembroke people will pay for them. If those who are able will buy a lot and put up a summer home on it, they can take their families out during the sultry months of summer and come into the city whenever they choose. It does not require a very shrewd business man to see the advantages of investing in the property now on the market. It is a fact, patent to the general reader, that all health resorts are good property and pay large dividends to investors. In a few years your investment will probably be worth five times what you put in it.

It must not be forgotten that the purchaser of a lot or more guarantees the free use of the water from any and all of the springs. Thus you see that not a single point of value has been left out of the proposition to the public by the Hotel Company.

The Limit of Life

The most eminent medical scientists are unanimous in the conclusion that the general accepted limitation of human life is many years below the attainment possible with the advanced knowledge of which the race is now possessed. The critical period, that determines its duration, seems to be between 50 and 60; the proper care of the body during this decade cannot be too strongly urged; carelessness then being fatal to longevity. Nature's best helper after 50 is Electric Bitters, the scientific tonic medicine that revitalizes every vital organ of the body. Guaranteed by R. C. Hardwick, Druggist, 50c.

The Sheriff Enjoined.

The First National Bank files suit in equity against David Smith, sheriff, and asks an order from Judge Cook restraining him from collecting any more taxes from the bank. It is claimed in the petition that the bank should have had credit, in the valuation of its stock for taxes, by the amount of its holdings of U. S. Bonds, and that in paying what the county claimed on its real estate for 1906, it really overpaid what was justly due the county, by the sum of $55.00.

To that end we state our belief that attendance by enlisted men and non-commissioned officers at drills, inspections, parades and other exercises prescribed for the instruction of the Kentucky State Guard, be construed as the performance of one day's duty and be paid for at the Government rate of pay for such enlisted men and non-commissioned officers when on duty. RECORD BREAKER

At the Postoffice in Money Orders, Monday.

Miss Eva Royalty, money-order clerk in the postoffice, reports that the money-order business done last Monday was the heaviest in any one day in the history of the Hopkinsville postoffice. The constant growth of business in Hopkinsville is shown in every branch of business in the city. Few people can realize how rapidly the city is growing. Even the old residents, who used to know everybody in town, now confess that they cannot keep up with the newcomers.

People Who Work in Hopkinsville.

Most Hopkinsville people work every day in some strained, unnatural position—bending constantly over a desk—riding on jolting wagons or cars—doing laborious housework, lifting, reaching or pulling or trying the back in a hundred and other ways. All these strains tend to wear, weaken and injure the kidneys until they fall behind in their work of filtering the poisons from the blood. Doan's Kidney pills cure sick kidneys—put new strength in bad backs—cures prove it.

John J. Basford, Cooper, of 766 East 9th St. says: "My back used to be so lame and sore at times that when I bent it was all I could do to straighten up again. The pains were always with me and doctored at one time but didn't obtain the slightest benefit. My attention was called to advertisement of Doan's Kidney Pills and I determined to try them. I got a box and after using them a few days could not help but notice a marked improvement in my condition. My health is better now than it has been for years. I give all the credit to Doan's Kidney pills, and strongly recommend them to others."

Two Cent Fare.

Two cents a mile for railroad fare is the cry throughout the country.

On the heels of the action of the Wisconsin railroad commission, which on Monday required the three largest lines traversing the Badger State to reduce the passenger rate to 2 cents per mile, half a dozen other commonwealths yesterday recorded their demands for a greater cut. The most popular rate is the flat one of 2 cents, and up to this time ten States either have passed bills making provisions for the change or are rushing the matter to a conclusion in their legislative assemblies.

IS NOT FOR SOCIALISM.

It Suggests Industrial Despotism to

Dr. Lyman Abbott.

In a sympathetically discriminating editorial Mr. Abbott, editor of the Outlook, sounds a needed note of warning at this time, when socialism, like the rascal in the fable, has already caught its lead under the folds of the American flag. Space permits only the following excerpt:

"We dissent from the method and to some extent from the doctrine of state socialism—that is, of that form of socialism which would make the state the chief if not the sole employer of industry for two reasons:

"State socialism assumes that the evils of society are primarily in the organization of society, so that reorganization were changed the evils would disappear. In fact, society never will be better than the individuals who compose it. A sound ship can never be made of rotten timber. Individual reformation and social reconstruction must go on together.

"State socialism assumes that the functions of society should be carried on by one organization—namely, the state. In fact, society can better perform its various functions by separate organizations. Putting the church and state control did not make a free church. It is more free since it has been taken out from state control. Putting industries under state control would not make the industries free.

The industries of the Free State of Congo are under state control, and industrial despotism is nowhere in the world so bad as it is in the Free State of Congo. The socialist replies that socialism assumes a democratic state to organize and carry on democratic industries. But in assuming that the state will be democratic when the struggle men of the state are incited by covetousness as well as by ambition to control the state they assume as true what history proves to be false. To take industry out of the hands of a 'Czar' and put it into the hands of a 'Czarlet' would not make industry free although Czar and Czarlet were not.

"In estimating the value of socialism the student should keep clearly in mind this distinction between its spirit, its doctrine and its programme. He should not be ready to accept its programme merely because he believes its doctrine and admires and shares its spirit."

HE IS AGAINST IT.

Archbishop Ireland Speaks Out on Public Ownership.

In an address before the Society of the Army of the Tennessee, in response to the toast "Our Country," Archbishop Ireland said:

"It is the duty of utopias. Seldom, if ever before, in the history of human society was there greater use of private wisdom on the part of would be teachers of public reflection on the part of the listening masses. The responsibility lies on all more slowly, to think wisely, to avoid all perils of leaps into the dark."

"A chief panacea put before us is common ownership, through city, state or nation, of the chief agencies of productivity and of the transportation hither and thither of the results of this productivity. Let all be on your guard. Common ownership in one direction lends readily to common ownership in another—all the more so when the purpose really held in mind by the many is to grasp wealth without much personal effort, to despoil others in making up one's own deficiencies, and is there not serious danger therein of weakening individual ambition—has been in America particularly the great stimulus to the wondrous material development with which the country has been blessed?"

SIFT THEIR TESTIMONY.

Take City Ownership Officials' Words With a Grain of Salt.

The testimony of the mayors of cities and the municipal officials and the editors of municipal plants is not necessarily unworthy of credence, but it should be given only such weight as would be accorded to the voluntary testimony of a bankrupt who refuses to produce his books for expert investigation and offers instead the balance sheets he has himself prepared. There is scarcely a city in America that keeps its books in such a way that the real financial condition of its municipal enterprise is readily ascertainable, while the annual reports might usually be taken as models by a get-rich-quick concern.

The reluctance of city officials to adopt the system of uniform accounting prepared by expert accountants under the direction of the National Municipal league creates a presumption that those officials have excellent, though perhaps not statable, reasons for avoiding a system of accounts which would make jugglery impossible.

The Rent Payer Fights the City Bills. It is all very well to talk about the benefits which are conferred upon the public by the cheaper and more efficient service which municipalities, according to theory, render in comparison with private corporations and about the advantages accruing to labor in the way of higher wages and shorter hours, but in the long run somebody has to foot bills for the city, and the taxpayer in the long run is everybody who pays rent—New York Sun.

London's Disquieting Discovery. London has found that it is paying 20 per cent more for supplies furnished to its public utility plants than the rate to private parties.—Reichman.

BAN ON OPIUM USE

CHINA IN REMARKABLE DECREE
COMMANDS REFORM.Newly Awakened Empire Rises to Throw Off Pernicious Habit
Forced on it by Christian Traders.

China has begun an awful struggle she has decreed that the monster opium which has had its fangs in the throat of the nation for more than a hundred years sucking its manhood and vitality shall be destroyed. And one can realize faintly what the struggle will mean if it is understood that a conservative estimate places the number of victims of the opium habit in China at 100,000,000 persons, or one-fourth more than the population of the United States. And another thing which will make the effort at reform more difficult is that this insidious Chinese vice is not sectional or of a class, but touches every part of the country and every grade of society.

The decree of the Chinese imperial government may best be appreciated by showing its effect if applied to similar habits in this country. Let us suppose that from 20 to 30 per cent of the American people smoke tobacco and drink liquor. Let the federal government decree that no more liquor shall be distilled or tobacco grown, and that all importations of the commodities must cease; that men who smoke and drink are ineligible for public office; that every one who uses tobacco and liquor must abandon them, that every tobacco store, bar, and saloon must close. The condition that would prevail here suggests the mighty reform that China has undertaken. The penalty for disregarding the edict is disgrace and political death.

The condition that would prevail here suggests the mighty reform that China has undertaken. The penalty for disregarding the edict is disgrace and political death. The new ground is to be used for growing supplies, and the area of ground now under cultivation must be diminished one-tenth each year, so that at the end of ten years the cultivation of the plant in China and the production of opium, save for purely medicinal purposes, will cease. Every user of the drug must register with the police and state the amount of opium he uses. No person can buy opium unless he is thus registered, and no additional persons will be permitted to register hereafter.

The regulations for the cure of those addicted to the vice apply to several classes. All under 60 years of age must reduce the amount of

A Field of Opium Poppies.

Opium consumed 20 per cent yearly, so that their use of it shall cease in five years. They must also pay license fees for the formation of opium societies. If they have not broken them within the habit in ten years they will be publicly disgraced. Government officials under 50 years of age must give up the use of the drug in six months, and the soldiers, sailors, teachers and scholars in three months. Anti-opium literature will be distributed, the formation of anti-opium societies is being encouraged, and medicines will be prepared for those who seek to break themselves of the habit.

All places for smoking the drug must be closed within six months. Smoking is prohibited in places of public resort. The sale of pipes, lamps and other appliances must cease within a year. All shops in which opium is sold must be registered, no new ones can be opened, and those in existence must show decreased sales each year, or they will be closed and their contents confiscated. All the shops must cease to exist in ten years.

A large part of the credit for this great reform is given to Vang-Tsueh, the Chinese ambassador to Great Britain, a reformer who recently formulated a constitution for China. His plans for the abolition of the opium trade were put into shape by Shao-yi in Peking, and finally, through the influence of Viceroy Yuan Shih-kai were adopted by the council of state affairs.

Rough on Gus. Yvette Guilbert, the charming French actress, now speaks English well enough to joke in it.

At a tea given in her honor by a Philadelphia women's club, she said: "English is not difficult. But one word may have a very different meaning that is sometimes vexing. 'A mother said to her daughter: 'Don't you find Gus rather rough?' The daughter answered, with a faint blush: 'Yes, mamma; and yet he says he shaves every day.'"

How Nature Provides.

OUR BEAUTY, HEALTH AND HAPPINESS.

It is not possible if not probable that elements necessary for the body-health are contained in the native medicinal roots found in the earth, digested in the plant laboratory of nature and made ready for man of animal.

The medicinal virtues of many American plants and roots were known to the early Indians. Thus a root known to modern physicians as (Anaphyllum or Great Marsh) was known to the Indians as "Squaw root." Another, known to the Indians as "Rattlesnake root," is used in modern medicine as "Chimaphila."

Prof. King, American Dispensary, an authority in these matters, says: "Our Indians set a high value on Rattlesnake root (Black Cohosh) in diseases of women. It is surpassed by no other drug in its conservative conditions of the parts where there are dragging pains."

After many years of study and experiment, Dr. Pierce, the medical director of the Invalid, Hotel and Surgical Institute at Buffalo, N. Y., put up a prescription of his own, containing the potent alcohol, glyceric extracts of the two above mentioned ingredients, together with Golden Seal root, Lady's Slipper root and Unicorn root. Thus, there is no mystery in the making of this famous "Prescription." The use of alcohol is

It stands alone not only in respect to its ingredients, but also as the only specific advertised remedy for women's diseases which also contains no alcohol.

Mrs. Mary J. Heard (Trained Nurse, Washington Hospital), of 110th Street, N. W., Washington, D. C., writes: "I felt badly for four years, had terrible pain at times and was often unable to be about attending to my duties. Appetite was poor and sleep fitted. I tried to do myself in various ways without success, but finally I was called to Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription and decided to try it. It was really the first bottle, and gradually became better until I was entirely cured of all troubles. Am well and can easily live once more."

Dr. Pierce's is largely a matter of good health, and good health is largely a matter of healthy activity of the bowels. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure constipation. They are safe, sure and speedy, and once taken do not have to be taken always. One little "Pellet" is a gentle laxative, and two mild cathartics. They never gripe. By all druggists.

SUGAR ON HER SOUL

By GRACE SALINGER

(Copyright, by Joseph B. Bowien.)

Aggie May had committed a terrible crime, and now she was reaping the harvest. She knew it, because her mother had told her so, and whoever heard of a mother telling a lie? If only Aunt Mag had said it she thought there might have been a mistake, but her mother—never!

And how she had said it! Aggie May's sobs gained new force as she recalled her mother's cold face when she had said: "Aggie May, what have you been doing?"

And Aggie May could feel again the sickening horror of detection. She surreptitiously put forth a small red tongue, which swiftly made the circle about two rosy lips to gather in all telltale crumbs. And then, secure in her belief that she had well covered her tracks, she had answered, unblushingly: "Nothing."

Aggie May's tongue was short, and sugar had such an unpleasant way of sticking to fat baby hands and fat baby faces.

Aggie May's mamma's face grew harder still as she uttered these awful words: "Aggie May, you will never go to heaven. You are no child of mine. You have violated every one of the Lord's commandments. He has told you not to steal, yet you have done it; he has said you must not lie, yet you are doing it. Do you think he is going to forgive you? No! He has punished you already. Come here."

In fear and trembling Aggie May stepped to her mother's side. Mrs. Sangster deliberately traced the outline of a word on the child's brow.

"Listen," she said, "this is what is written there. Sugar-gat. That spells

Where Was She?

'sugar.' Aggie May, you have been stealing sugar."

Then her mother's voice continued: "All your life you will have that word written on your forehead. And as you grow older it will probably deepen," she added, sadly. Certainly Aggie May's mother realized the fearful extent of the calamity. Then she turned and cruelly left the room.

Aggie May stood in a dazed stupor for a moment, then she hastily climbed on a chair to look into the glass. It was at this juncture that Aunt Mag came in, and unconsciously settled everything. She found Aggie May with a very sugary mouth and tearful eyes before the mirror. In a minute her own keen eyes had grasped the situation.

"Aunt Mag," said Aggie May, "what do you see on my forehead?"

Aunt Mag looked straight at Aggie May's mouth, and then she said: "Sugar."

Aggie May's eyes grew dark with horror. "Is it written in very big and black letters?" she asked.

"Very big and black," answered her aunt.

"Don't you think it will ever come off?" queried Aggie May, anxiously. "I should say not," answered her aunt. "It's so black."

Aggie May shivered. She slowly climbed down from her chair, her fat legs hardly bearing the weight of her trembling body.

"Oh, Aunt Mag," she pleaded, tearfully, "the dirt on my finger came off when I washed it yesterday. Don't you reckon I can wash this off?"

"I don't know," said Aunt Mag, thoughtfully. "This is not your finger, you know; it's your soul."

"But you said it was my forehead," said Aggie May, with a gleam of hope.

"It shines through," answered her Aunt Mag. "If you want to rub it off you'll have to wash your soul."

Aggie May turned her small face toward the open door. Here was a problem. She must think. Where was her soul?

Beneath the apple tree Aggie May gave way to the full horror of her misery and despair. How could she reach her soul? Her hands moved restlessly over her chubby body. Where was her soul? She had certainly heard it mentioned before, but no one had ever located it exactly. It couldn't be in her stomach, she knew that, because hadn't Aunt Mag said the blackness showed through on her forehead? Certainly! Of course! Now stupid she was! It was in her head, underneath her hair. But how was she to get at it?

Again the complication of circumstances appalled her. Clearly the first thing to do, however, was to cut off her hair. After that, she might scratch a little hole right back of the forehead and get it out. The operation sounded painful, and at heart Aggie May was a coward. She decided that to crop the growing tresses might be efficacious. After that she would go down and hold her head in the brook all day. Maybe the water would wash it in. She started back to her house. Obviously the first thing to do was to get a pair of scissors and some soap.

Aggie May crept softly into her mother's room. It was empty, with her work-basket lying just within Aggie May's reach. She turned back to the orchard triumphantly. By night her soul should be clean.

Through the orchard, over the meadow, into the cool darkness of the woods, Aggie May sped. The brook was deep in the heart of the forest. No one had ever been there alone before, but she knew its way. Under the dim alms of quiet trees the child ran swiftly, now one direction, now another, until in a maze of briars and trunk she sawed a great scar arising in her heart. Where was she? But she went on determinedly. The brook must be found.

Mrs. Sangster stood at the door, shading her eyes with her hand. "What can make the child so late?" she said. Her sister glanced up from her work. "Perhaps she has gone to meet her father," she suggested.

But the mother caught sight of a figure moving across the meadow. "No," she said; "there comes Aggie alone. Mag, something has happened to Aggie May."

She started down the path, and her sister rose, and reluctantly followed. She wanted to finish her sewing.

"I last saw her under the apple tree about three, I should say," answered Mag.

The three hurried to the spot, half expecting to find her at play. It was Aggie May's favorite spot to play, to think or to grieve. All the great crises of her life had been enacted here. But her swing hung limp and motionless.

Mr. Sangster turned to go, but his wife suddenly called him back with a piercing cry.

"Look!" she said. At her feet lay a heap of golden curls, and beside them, thrown upon the ground, lay a pair of scissors—her scissors.

"Indians," gasped Mag, turning white. "Gipsies," ventured the mother. "Oh, Aggie May, Aggie May, where are you?" she called, wildly.

Mr. Sangster said nothing. He stooped and gathered up the handful of golden hair, and crammed it in his pocket.

Then he crossed the meadow. In the open space it was still broad daylight, but in the forest beyond the shadows were always black.

"Mag," said Mrs. Sangster, suddenly turning to her sister-in-law, "run and rouse the men, and get lanterns. We'll search the woods."

Meanwhile Aggie May's little feet sped fast and faster. The shadows thickened. How thickly they fell amid the dense growth of the forest. Ghosts and goblins loomed fantastically behind each tree. A sharp crackling sound overhead made her crouch and hold her breath in terror. It was a dead branch falling at her feet. With a nameless fear that choked her she hastened on.

Suddenly the trees became less dense, and the light grew brighter, as she neared the open space. She stood in wonder. It was not the fairies, after all. She had read the brook.

She knelt down beside it. She took from her pocket the soap, and rubbed it carefully on the spot just behind her forehead. Her mamma would be glad to see her without that black word on her brow. The little shorn head bent low over the swiftly moving stream, and she caught the reflection of earth and sky in its dancing ripples. Suddenly she reeled, the earth slipped away, she felt the cold water grip her, and then with a cry she plunged head foremost into the current.

Some instinct of motherhood guided Mrs. Sangster's footsteps. The sound of Aggie May's voice reached her faintly at first, then louder, until it resounded through the stillness in frantic echoes. Following the sound, she plunged ahead, and arrived just in time to see a small hand flung out wildly from the middle of the brook, then sped onward.

It was not a heroic task to step in and rescue the fallen child. Mr. Sangster waded to the middle of the stream, and in a moment Aggie May was in her mother's arms.

Behind them, in the forest, lights were gleaming like fireflies, and the arching dome of the forest rang with shouts of Aggie May's name. She lay very white and scared, while the water trickled down in little rivulets from her limp arms and legs. Aggie May hung a dripping arm about her mother's neck. "It was very cold," she said, nestling closed in the protecting arms, and the water settled in my front, but I think it must have come off. They ain't no sugar on my soul now, is they, mamma?"

And Mrs. Sangster, with choking voice, answered, "No, dear, your soul is very white now."

Aggie May clasped her hands joyously. "I knowed it," she said. Then a quick shadow passed over her face. "It must 'a' been the soap, though," she said. "Cause I wasn't in the brook very long."

One of the Important Duties of Physicians and the Well-Informed of the World is to learn as to the relative standing and reliability of the leading manufacturers of medicinal agents, as the most eminent physicians are the most careful as to the uniform quality and perfect purity of remedies prescribed by them, and it is well known to physicians and the Well-Informed generally that the California Fig Syrup Co., by reason of its correct methods and perfect equipment and the ethical character of its product has attained to the high standing in scientific and commercial circles which is accorded to successful and reliable houses only, and, therefore, that the name of the Company has become a guarantee of the excellence of its remedy.

TRUTH AND QUALITY

appeal to the Well-Informed in every walk of life and are essential to permanent success and creditable standing, therefore we wish to call the attention of all who would enjoy good health, with its blessings, to the fact that it involves the question of right living with all the term implies. With proper knowledge of what is best each hour of recreation, of enjoyment, of contemplation and of effort may be made to contribute to that end and the use of medicines dispensed with generally to great advantage, but as in many instances a simple, wholesome remedy may be invaluable if taken at the proper time, the California Fig Syrup Co. feels that it is alike important to present truthfully the subject and to supply the one perfect laxative remedy which has won the approval of physicians and the world-wide acceptance of the Well-Informed because of the excellence of the combination, known to all, and the original method of manufacture, which is known to the California Fig Syrup Co. only.

This valuable remedy has been long and favorably known under the name of—Syrup of Figs—and has attained to world-wide acceptance as the most excellent of family laxatives, and as its pure laxative principles, obtained from Senna, are well known to physicians and the Well-Informed of the world to be the best of natural laxatives, we have adopted the more elaborate name of—Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna—as more fully descriptive of the remedy, but doubtless it will always be called for by the shorter name of Syrup of Figs—and to get its beneficial effects always when, purchasing, the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—is plainly printed on the front of every package, whether you simply call for—Syrup of Figs—or by the full name—Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna—as—Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna—is the one laxative remedy manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. and the same heretofore known by the name—Syrup of Figs—which has given satisfaction to millions. The genuine is for sale by all leading druggists throughout the United States in original packages of one size only, the regular price of which is fifty cents per bottle.

Every bottle is sold under the general guarantee of the Company, filed with the Secretary of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., that the remedy is not adulterated or misbranded within the meaning of the Food and Drugs Act, June 30th, 1906.

"THERE IS NO SIN,"

Was Subject of Powerful
Sermon Last Tuesday Night.

GREAT INTEREST.

Two Services Arranged for at the Tabernacle Next Sunday.

The sermon of Evangelist Birch at the First Presbyterian church Tuesday night was one of the most searching and earnest that he has yet delivered. He took for his text the 24th verse of the 8th chapter of John: "If ye believe not that I am he, ye shall die in your sins."

The preacher began his sermon by a strong attack on a class of persons who are going about trying to convince the world that there is no such thing as sin. Taking the word of God for instruction he said that he did not have to go to an old woman of Boston, or anywhere else, for enlightenment on this great question. He takes the word of the Master on at that point; and while men and women everywhere are guilty of some secret sin—in the church and out of it—some day "their sin will find them out." He said that if God were to lift the lid off of Hopkinsville it would be seen to be as foul and rotten as hell. He said that the great fault of the church and people to-day is that they are smiling at sin—they call the sin of drunkenness, debauchery, impurity, etc., "a habit," and "some day they will reform." They are sins, and be sure, your sins will find you out. He then spoke of the will of the mind harboring sin, the sin of omission and commission, the indwelling sin, presumptuous sin, and so on, proving conclusively that the assertions of a certain class that there is no sin in the world are mere fallacies and altogether undeserving the thought of sensible people. He held up Christ as the great remedy for sin and the duty of members of the church to aid those who are indulging in worldliness, and that the man who most needs the sympathy of God's people is the man who is guilty of the sin of drunkenness. It is no wonder that a few preachers and a handful of consecrated members of the church can do so little for God when there is so much sin in the world.

The sermon throughout was delivered in intense earnestness and the large audience, apparently, caught every word that fell from the lips of the preacher. Though every one seemed to be under the influence of the hour for some reason, known only to Mr. Birch, there was no call made for an expression from those out of the church who are considering their soul's salvation.

NOTES.

Another meeting for men only has been arranged for at the Tabernacle next Sunday afternoon at 2:30. Most of them have signified their desire to omit their services Sunday night and join in a union service at the Tabernacle.

The prayer of Dr. Lyon just before the sermon Tuesday night was a most devout and powerful call upon the Almighty for help in the services for the salvation of souls and for a continuation of the great work which has been going on in the city for several months past.

Mr. Birch does not use his cornet as often as formerly. He says he is "getting old," but he certainly is as young as ever in zeal and enthusiasm for the salvation of souls, but a little more of the cornet would please those who hear him.

Mr. Birch does not want people to go to church to hear his cornet, but to hear him preach the Gospel of Christ.

Notwithstanding unfavorable weather every service has had a capacity house, with the exception of the first, which was on general prayer meeting night.

The services are to continue up to and including Wednesday night, March 6th, and a week of faithful work is to be put in by those who have pledged themselves for individual work.

How different it is now from what it was ten or more years back. Then every denomination seemed to think it was "it," and they didn't affiliate with each other during revivals. What a beautiful spirit to see the ministers and their people taking part in all evangelistic efforts, as they do to-day! People of different denominations have expressed their intention to do all they can in personal work during the services.

Mr. Birch, by request, will play as a cornet solo, Sunday night at the Tabernacle, "Nearer My God, to Thee." This is considered his best.

It is pretty well settled that all the night meetings will be held at the Tabernacle until the close of the services beginning Sunday night.

Mr. Birch will use his cornet more at the Tabernacle than he has at the church, as the size of the room better admits it.

Services began at 7:15 last night and closed at 8:30 to give all a chance who desired to go to the entertainment at the Tabernacle.

Farmers mechanics, railroaders, laborers rely on Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil. Takes the sting out of cuts, burns or bruises at once. Pain cannot stay where it is used.

AMUSEMENTS.

Those who are fond of dramatic situations and thrilling climaxes will be furnished a treat when the "James Boys in Missouri" is put on here Friday night, March 1. This production is said to be the most vivid of the kind ever put on the stage. The company is large and brings with it a magnificent and complete setting for every act. Reports from the cities where the play has been declare it to be the best thing of its kind seen this year.

Prices for the engagement here will be as follows: Lower floor 50c, balcony, 40c and 35c.

THE GRIP

Has Its Hold Upon a Great Number of People.

A man said on the street the other day that he believed there were 500 people in the city who were either down with grip or going about town not worth a cent for business or anything else. He may be correct in his estimate, but there is one consolation—it is of a mild form, and after being thoroughly dosed with the usual remedies, and sneezing and blowing and grunting and starving for a few days most people get over it in a couple of weeks. There have been scarcely any deaths from grip this year, either in the city or county. The doctors are all busy but ailments generally are being successfully handled by the profession.
